

MACARENA SANZ, DVM, DACIVM, MSc, PhD

Associate Professor Equine Medicine. Department of Veterinary Clinical Sciences, College of Veterinary Medicine, Washington State University, Pullman, WA 99164. Education: University of La Plata, College of Veterinary Medicine. Buenos Aires, Argentina (DVM); Washington State University, College of Veterinary Medicine, Pullman, Washington (Large Animal Internship, MSc, Dip ACVIM); University of Kentucky, Gluck Equine Research Center, Lexington, KY (PhD, Post-Doctorate). Professional Experience: Senior Lecturer, University of Pretoria, Faculty of Veterinary Sciences, South Africa (2008–2011); PhD candidate, University of Kentucky, Gluck Equine Research Center, Lexington, KY, USA (2011–2014); Post doctorate. University of Kentucky, Gluck Equine Research Center, Lexington, KY, USA (2014 – 2015); Assistant Professor Equine Medicine – Washington State University, College of Veterinary Medicine, Pullman, WA, USA (2015 to 2021); Awarded the Robert B. McEachern Distinguished Professorship in Equine Medicine (2021 to date). Scientific publications (38); Conferences/posters (47); book chapters (1); Scholarships (4); Grants (30). Service: International Equine Infectious Disease–International Committee Member since 2022; Equine Veterinary Journal, Editorial Consultant Board since 2021; SCAAEP chapter advisor (2018 to date); Equine Internal Medicine Search Committee. Chair (2020); Ad-hoc reviewer: Equine Veterinary Journal, Veterinary Surgery, Journal of Veterinary Internal Medicine, Veterinary Immunology and Immunopathology, Veterinary Record, Journal of the South African Veterinary Association; ACVIM General exam committee (2015 to date); ACVIM research abstract reviewer (2009, 2014 to date).